$1 A YEAR

At This Season of the Year,

Thoughts of the approaching Holidays occupy the minds of the people to the exclusion of all else, and we rack our minds in endeavors to choose what is most suitable to give our loved ones as a Holiday present. If you would please the wife and children most and at the same time get something of use and benefit to the entire family, buy a

New Buggy and Harness,

And have something that will bring joy and gladness to every member of your family for years to come.

You will find our place is yet Headquarters for Horses and Mules, and we are still exclusive agents for the Famous Light Running STUDEBAKER, the BEST Wagon on the market. We make terms to suit every purchaser.

Give us a Call and you'll find that you'll receive a square deal.

Meals in the Dark Ages.

Few references can be found as to the manner in which a meal was served and eaten during the dark ages. As near as we can learn, the soup was put in a big bowl with ears, called a "porringer." There was seldom a spoon for each person. Those who had spoons dipped them into the porringer, and the liquid was carried directly to each mouth. Those who were without spoons drank their soup from the porringer, holding it by one of the ears, or else borrowed a spoon of their neighbor. The meats were placed in a large vessel in the center of the table. Each person present at the meal picked out with his fingers such bits as he desired. One or two knives answered for half a dozen guests. Those who were without knives borrowed from those who had them. As a rule, the guests at table used their own knives. There is no evidence that napkins were supplied to guests at this period. At any rate, no mention is made of them.

Tipstaves.

Tipstaves, otherwise known as "old Charlies," "Bow-street runners" and "Tom tits," were formerly used in England by officers of the law, or police in private clothes, to show their authority. They were generally carried up the sleeve or in a pocket conveniently at hand, and the officer would draw his tipstaff and touch the person to be arrested on the shoulder and say, "I arrest you in the name of the king." Just as now a policeman produces his warrant. They were generally made of wood, mounted with brass or silver and tipped with a brass, ivory or carved wooden crown, whence the name tipstaff was derived. They varied in size from five to nine inches in length. The men who carried them were also called "Bow street runners." The last survivor died in 1894 at the age of eighty-five.

A Skin Game.

"Things are not always what they seem," said an officer of one of the big leather companies the other day at a gathering of leather men. "Once upon a time there were six good little goats in a field. They died young, like all good little goats with good skins, and the fellow who was responsible for their death shipped those skins to a tannery. When they came out the skin of one little goat was an elephant's hide, that of the second little goat was a monkey skin, that of the third was a sealskin, the fourth a sea lion, the fifth a green frog skin and the skin of the sixth came out a beautiful walrus hide."—New York Times.

Her Retort.

"Housekeep—You're always up so early, Bridget, there's lots of your work you might get done before any of the family gets up. Bridget—Thru for ye, ma'am. I might be making up the beds."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Pretty Good Indication.

Gerald—I wonder whether I shall be numbered with the sheep or the goats on the day of judgment? Geraldine—Well, you are always butting in—

To The Little Girls.

B. F. Moseley, the druggist, wants all the little girls in town and country from 3 to 12 years of age to meet at his drug store on next Monday afternoon, 3:30 o'clock. At that time a free drawing will be held for the beautiful doll "Alice Blue," and some sweet little girl will get her. Each child present will be given a ticket and when supplied the drawing will take place. Don't forget the time, Monday afternoon at Moseley's drug store.

A Liquid Cold Cure.

Croup, coughs, colds, whooping cough etc., have no terrors for children or adults who evacuate the bowels with Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar—the original laxative cough syrup and liquid cold cure. This remedy expels all cold from the system and strengthens the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes. The mother's favorite and children's safeguard. Sold by W. B. Davis.

Caughing Spell Caused Death.

"Harry Duckwell, aged 25 years, choked to death early yesterday morning at his home, in the presence of his wife and child. He contracted a slight cold a few days ago and paid but little attention to it. Yesterday morning he was seized with a fit of coughing which continued for some time. His wife sent for a physician but before he could arrive, another coughing spell came on and Duckwell died from suffocation.—St. Louis Globe Democrat, Dec. 1st, 1901." Ballard's Horehound Syrup would have saved him. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by W. B. Davis.
